Biographical Note

Henry P. Gerber was a teacher and then a professor of Industrial Arts at Northern Normal and Industrial School from the 1910s/20s until his retirement in 1956. In 1940, Henry Gerber became the Local Director of the Defense Training School, which the federal government established at Northern to train workers for the defense industry. After the U.S. entered World War II, Henry Gerber was recruited by UNRRA (United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration) in 1944. Gerber spent his time with UNRRA in Italy at Santa Maria di Bagni, a refugee camp where he helped the refugees learn trades. One of Henry Gerber's son, Bernard Gerber, collected the letters Henry sent to his family during his time at Santa Maria di Bagni into a book entitled, Letters from Italy: Correspondence from Henry P. Gerber.

Bernard Charles Gerber was born in Aberdeen, SD on November 25, 1926. He began attending Northern State Teachers College during his senior year at Central High School from September 1943 until his induction into the U.S. Army in March 1945. Following honorable discharge from the service, he resumed his studies at Northern in teacher education and pre-medicine, graduating in 1949 with a Bachelor of Science degree with majors in chemistry and biology and a minor in history, eventually becoming a surgeon. Dr. Gerber was honored as a Distinguished Alumnus of Northern State College in 1978.
