Historical Note

Professor Tostlebe started the Traveling Classroom program in July 1954. Professor Tostlebe took twenty-four students to Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, and the Pacific Northwest for five quarter-hours of credit. This new course was so successful that the following summer he took two busses. Continuing to grow in popularity, the traveling classroom split into two tours in its third year, one in June and one in August. Over the years, the program has traveled as far as Eastern Europe, Asia, Hawaii, the Bahamas, and Nova Scotia and has taken as many as 144 travelers, both students, alumni, and community members. Today the traveling classroom program continues. However, the program is much shorter, travels only throughout South Dakota, and focuses on criminal justice.
